Philippines: Take Action on Climate Change

Dear President,

Marinel Sumook Ubaldo was only 16 years-old when she faced the disastrous effects of climate change. Marinel survived the deadly typhoon Yolanda in 2013 to become a leading youth activist, dedicated to ensuring the Philippine government, and governments around the world, confront climate change and tackle its effects on her community, and others like them.

Please support Marinel's cause by ensuring that the residents of Matarinao village in Salcedo, Eastern Samar and other vulnerable communities in the Philippines are able to live with dignity and by calling on the countries most responsible for climate change to provide financial and technical support.

Yours sincerely,
